

I'm Sorry

Dear Bestie,

I know things haven't been right between us lately, and I'm truly sorry for hurting you. You trusted me, and I should have stood by your side. I never meant to lie or break your trust — it was my mistake, and I accept it fully.

Whatever happened was a misunderstanding, but the pain you felt is real. And I want you to know... you matter more to me than any situation or any person.

Our bond, our memories, our silly talks, our endless support for each other — I don't want to lose any of it.

The nickname you gave me — Dolly — is precious to me, because it came from you and only you. I never want anything to break the bond behind that name.

I'm not asking you to forget everything instantly... I'm just asking for one chance to make things right. Because you're not just a friend — you're my person, my comfort, my constant.

If my actions hurt you, I'm sincerely sorry.

If my words disappointed you, I'm truly sorry.

If I made you feel betrayed, I am deeply sorry.

I promise I'll be more honest, loyal, and understanding. Just don't go far... I don't want this friendship to fade. You mean too much to me.

Let's start fresh?

I miss you.

And I'm waiting for you.

*With a sorry heart,
Your friend who truly cares.*

From your Dolly to my Sayala 🧡
